ABOUT
GLOBAL CENTS

Global Cents (GCI Live, LLC) was founded in 2005 with the vision of helping heavily regulated organizations better manage their information and processes within controlled OpenText Content Server environments. Over the years Global Cents has become recognized as the leading provider of value-added information lifecycle management solutions within the OpenText ecosystem and now supports nearly 100 companies around the globe.

Powerful tools for regulated businesses

Whether your business is life sciences, energy, government or finance, organizations operating within heavily regulated industries have specialized needs. Global Cents understand your challenges and our PowerTools suite was designed specifically to enable the use of Content Server within controlled environments.

From document creation and publishing to electronic signatures, and powerful workflow extensions to data transfer, we provide the tools, knowledge and best practices that optimize every aspect of your regulated information management processes.

Trusted by industry

Today, Global Cents' solutions enable regulated businesses across 3 continents. Our clients range from small private financial institutions, the world's largest pharmaceutical companies to the world's leading space agency. They use our solutions to support everything from processing simple applications, managing their controlled documents to planning trips to other planets - literally.

We developed the original Content Server

Our people make Global Cents who we are. Whether you are looking for industry leading professional services or best practice advice on how to deploy ECM solutions within your organization, we have first-hand experience. Global Cents was founded by the team that built much of OpenText's original Content Server (then known as Livelink) platform.

Continuing to this day, our team is formed of ex-OpenText executives, consultants, and developers who remain in close connection with their OpenText counterparts and continue to help shape the future of ECM within regulated industries.

Reliable professional services and partner network

Having the right people on your team is essential and our team of experts are the right people. Whether you need support managing change across your environments, automating your controlled document publishing, creating regulated document workflows and reports, improving user adoption and reducing your training costs or assistance migrating and archiving content our team has years of experience helping other customers that have similar needs.

Through our network of trusted partners, we are able to call upon some of the industry's leading experts and provide local support to clients around the globe.

GLOBAL CENTS

If your regulated business relies on OpenText Content Server (previously Livelink), then Global Cents should be your partner of choice.
